

This metal milk crate is a great home for the purple fountain grass, scaviola, and Melampodium.

These salvaged containers hold red salvia and pink portulaca.

This metal milk pail holds white vincas and pink geraniums.

Potato vines, orange zinnias, and a spike top off this salvaged milk pail.

Rose-colored portulaca fit nicely in this container made out of recycled plastic.

This is a combination of a salvaged bucket garden with a garage sale find as the accent piece in the center of gomphrena, vinca vine, and asparagus fern.
